

Alan Wightman

Alan is a screenwriter, playwright, author and comedy writer who started off his career providing material for many of Britain's top television comedians including The Two Ronnies, Les Dawson, Jimmy Tarbuck and Bob Monkhouse, before eventually becoming a Script Associate on dozens of television series and specials.

He's worked with a host of international stars including Mel Gibson, Antonio Banderas, Shirley Maclaine, Glenn Campbell, Barry Manilow, Gloria Estefan, George Benson, Barbra Streisand and The Muppets, along with such British stars as Sir Roger Moore, Sir Anthony Hopkins and Hugh Grant.

Alan also majors in other areas of the media and is in demand to write books, plays, musicals, pantomimes and screenplays - but between 1998 and 2004 he found time to create, write and produce five series of the hugely successful TV talent show "Just Up Your Street" for BBC One Wales.

Alan has three screenplays currently with production companies and in October 2008, his screenplay for the movie "Bloodline" starring Christopher Cazenove, won the Best Short Film Award at the Marbella International Film Festival.

He is a regular contributor to Britain's top TV critic's newspaper column and is in demand for comedy material and after-dinner speeches.

SELECTED RECENT CREDITS

"Bloodline"

A horror film starring Christopher Cazenove. Winner of the Best Short Film Award at the 2008 Marbella International Film Festival. Made by The Motion Picture House.

"King Of The Callers"

Documentary about the National Bingo Caller Of The Year Contest

"Star Player"

A stage musical written with composer Phil Govier.

"Humpty Dumpty & The Magic ' Bus"

A stage show for children. Produced By The Owen Money Theatre Company.

"Buttons Undone!"

A stage farce. Produced By The Owen Money Theatre Company.

"Robinson Crusoe"

Pantomime for the 2008/9 season. Produced by The Owen Money Theatre Company.

"Don't You Rock Me Daddio!"

A Stage musical written with composers Joe Brown and Roger Cook.

"Sebastian De'th - Ghost Hunter"

BBC Radio sitcom series.

"Freddie Starr – Unwrapped"

Biography. Virgin Books

"The Big Thick Joe Pasquale Book"

Humour book. Andre Deutsch